Bike and Tool Library

By Cloudberry Communities

One of the themes of the Northern Corridor Community Volunteers is to support active travel and community wellbeing activities in the eight former mining villages of the Northern Corridor.

Their cycling projects including a bike library, bike share and subscription services, promote access in a sustainable way. Through short term loans of bikes and ebikes, community members can try transitioning from car use and explore if they wish to pursue an interest in cycling for leisure.

The group also offer a service to the community to donate used bikes which are then reconditioned before being reused by another member of the community. This ensures that used bikes are not sent to landfill waste.

The same principles of reuse led the group to set up a tool library. This enables tools and equipment to be shared by groups in the community, through short term loans.
